Glengarry Glen Ross

by David Mamet

9-16 May 2009

Desperation is a dangerous thing...

Desperation eats at you from the inside out...

Desperation can lead to a dangerous act...

1980s Chicago. Four real estate salesmen are prepared to do anything in order to sell 'unsellable' land to prospective buyers, or 'leads'. They are desperate to sell and get on the all-important board – top wins a Cadillac, second a pack of steak knives...third and fourth get fired.

Then the Glengarry leads arrive: a list of prime names and phone numbers of potential clients for an expensive property development that the firm will be selling in the near future - Glengarry Highlands in Florida.

If only they could get their hands on them...

Starring John McLaren (Levene), Stuart Keil (Williamson), Richard Self (Moss), Roger Gollop (Aaronow), Michael Martin (Roma), Mark Campbell (Ling) and Ian Long (Baylen)

Directed by Peter Griffin
